Here I am now, driving slow enough that the telephone poles don't look like a picket fence going by.

And I read where traffic deaths are down 23 per cent since speed limits are cut to 55 m.p.h.

That is conserving energy. And it is great to think about one out of four auto fatalities isn't anymore.

But freeway driving is a bore. Paved, leveled and landscaped for the 70 going on 85 m.p.h. driver, he now reads a newspaper going down the concrete and macadem expanse, thinking about installing television.

This is what might be highway engineering "overkill" in that traffic is slowed to safe speeds on super highways Eddie Rickenbacker would've happily exchanged for the brick pavement in the old days at Indianapolis Speedway. They still call the place "the brickyard."

I guess we are slowing down to live.

I see an accident once in awhile at town speeds and am amazed at what comes apart in collision at 30 to 40 m.p.h. Cars bend at any speed.

It's people that last longer driving slower.

Assuming one out of four now survives that once didn't, we might install these inflatable bags that fill the driver's seat area upon impact and cushion him and passenger from windshield, dashboard and steering wheel.

And then another one out of four would survive. And then many staticians at the National Safety Council would join thousands of service station owners who are out of work. The traffic statistics business at holidays and the end of the year would be seriously inhibited.

My chances of living longer, long enough for computerized safe driving from place to place are much greater. And then I can install a TV and watch it while "driving" at safe highway speeds. It would beat counting slow moving telephone poles.

Murder Suspect Sought

BODY FOUND ON FARM NEAR GAUSE

A warrant charging first-degree murder has been issued for the arrest of a Bryan man in Justice of the Peace Jim Swanzy's court in Milano.

The charge was filed by Milam County Sheriff Carl Black.

The warrant was issued after law enforcement officers found the body of another Bryan man in a shallow grave near Gause.

The body was identified as that of Richard Lee Freeman, 28, of Bryan. It was found on a farm about three miles from Gause near the Brazos River Saturday.

The warrant names Jim Jones Triggs Jr., 24, native of Bastrop, who was working in Bryan. Triggs is also wanted for questioning in the robbery of the Citizens State Bank in Calvert on November 27, 1973.

Sheriff Carl Black, who aided in the search of the farm Friday and Saturday, said that Freeman's body was found in a shallow grave near a junk pile on the farm, which belongs to L. L. Walker.

An autopsy was performed Saturday by a Waco pathologist who reported that Freeman had been shot five times with a .38 caliber revolver.

The body was found as law officers searched the farm after Freeman's blood-soaked car was found in Bryan Friday. Freeman was reported missing by his wife two days after he had been missing Monday, February 18.

Sheriff Black said searching officers found blood on the ground and on a fence near the farm house yard leading them to search the area. A place near the junk pile was spotted as being recently dug and smoothed with a shovel.

Officers dug, finding Freeman's body in a grave abount 2 1/2 feet deep.

Triggs was renting the farm house and working in Bryan, Black said. Black said Triggs apparently disappeared about February 20 not reporting for work.

Bank robbery charges were filed against Triggs by the Robertson County sheriff at Franklin after combined efforts of the Robertson County and Milam County sheriff's offices, Bryan and College Station police departments, Texas Rangers and FBI.

More than $33,000 was taken in the robbery and $9,000 was found in a car belonging to the bank president, used as a get-away car in November.

Water System Starts Extension Of Lines

Construction of a new extension of the Milano Water Supply Corporation, which has been stalled for over two years, is starting up, promising water to more Milam communities.

A report on this development was highlight of a meeting of the corporation's members last week, when directors were elected for another term.

A contract for laying of the new water lines was let recently and construction is now underway, members were told.

One section of the new lines will extend from the well and storage tank in Milano and run parallel to Highway 79 toward Gause. A second, and longer, section will run from Milano and generally parallel Highway 36 south into Burleson County. ending in the Chriesman area. It will serve customers in the Elevation, Friendship and Woodrow Lake areas.

When completed, the new lines will add about 80 miles of pipeline to the water system and serve 208 members.

It will join the corporation's present system, now about seven years old, that serves customers in Milano, along Highway 79 and 36 and in the Griffin Chapel area and which has 205 members.

Farmers Home Administration supervisor Henry Ivey told the meeting that the well to supply the new lines had been drilled, tested, and approved.

It was reported that the new line has been laid up Highway 79 to within 2 -1/2 miles of Gause, As soon as each section is completed the line will be put into service without waiting for completion of the whole project.

L. E. Love, corporation president, said new applications will be accepted if they are submitted without delay.

It was explained that the contractor uses several sizes of pipe, depending on the number of customers to be served in an area. If more customers are added, he may have to replace the line and the new member will be charged for that expense.

Nominated for terms on the board of directors were Ray Whited, Lee Keen and H. G. Hughes, Hughes said he would be unable to serve and suggested his son, Houston Hughes, be named in his place. The three were elected to the board.

SSI Alert Day Set For Aged, Disabled

"SSI Alert Day" has been set for Milam County Tuesday, March 5 at the Cameron Community Center on Sixth Street.

The meeting will be open to the public and will feature information and answers to questions on a new program for the aged and disabled.

The program is called Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and is aimed at people whose Social Security or pension check is not enough to live on. It also is aimed for those who for some reason are ineligible for Social Security.

"In the case of many older housewives, migrant workers and domestic workers, their work was not of a nature to allow them to get Social Security," Carr says.

He says housewives were not paid and other professions are of such short duration at any one place, that Social Security never needed to be paid.

The new program's goal is to see that eligible persons living alone receive at least $140 a month, and couples at least $210 a month.

Early national estimates were that 2.5 million people were eligible for SSI and not receiving it. "Those estimates were made before the search project began," Carr says. "I now think there are 4.6 million persons eligible nationwide.

He says for each area there are anywhere from 3,000 to 4,000 persons eligible for more income under the program.

The reason, Carr says, is because qualification guidelines under SSI are broader than Social Security.

All persons who feel they may be eligible for the new program are urged to attend the meeting Tuesday at the Community Center.

Exile Is Old Russian Tradition

By Richard Wallis
MOSCOW

Reuter -- Exile, like that forced upon Alexander Solzhensitsyn, is an old Russian tradition.

Lenin and Trotsky were exiles and many of the poets and thinkers who influenced them were exiles as well.

Enforced or voluntary, exile seems to be a distinguishing mark of many moving spirits of Russian history -- whether under the Tsars or the Communists.

For centuries Russia's exiles have traditionally determined its history.

Now that dissident author Alexander Solzhenitsyn has been expelled from the Soviet Union and stripped of his citizenship, one question is: How much influence will he still have on the country left behind?

Solzhenitsyn has joined the band of Russian emigres, ranging from descendants of the imperial Romanov family to leftwing politicians, which has provided the West with an adopted tribe that includes artists, scientists and writers of world fame.

After the outstanding 19th century Russian thinker Alexander Herzen went into voluntary exile in England, Czar Alexander II became a regular reader of his radical publication, The Bell.

Solzhenitsyn, shortly before his arrest and expulsion, said members of the central committee of the Soviet communist party were secretly and avidly reading his labor camp history "Gulag Archipeloago."

Both under the Czars and under the Communist system, there has been a tendency to depict Russian exiles as inevitably going to seed as soon as they lose touch with their homeland.

One of the favorite examples in the last century was novelist Ivan Turgenev -- whose last few lines were written in a mixture of Russian, French and Italian.

However absence from Russia might have affected Turgenev's creativity, the return of his body to St. Petersburg in 1883 -- when Fyodor Dostoyevsky described the anguish of the Russian intelligentisia at a famous railroad station speech -- was a major political event.

In April 1917 a sealed iron train pulled into Petrograd returning another Russian exile, alive and well, who was to change the face of his homeland. It was Lenin.

But the revolution itself was made outside Russia, in the havens of Britain, Germany, Switzerland and Italy where generations of Russian radicals plotted the overthrow of the Czars.

The political influence of Leon Trotsky -- exiled in 1929 -- was generally thought to be on the decline after his banishment, but in 1948 he was assassinated in Mexico apparently on the orders of Stalin.

Solzhenitsyn's influence on the Soviet Union, where his works are banned, can no longer be direct. It is through mounting world reaction to the Kremlin's moves against him that his weight is most likely to be felt.

When another Soviet writer Yevgeny Zamyatin -- author of "We", a chilling vision of a future totalitarian state -- wrote to Stalin in 1931 asking to leave, he said: "I beg that I be allowed to go abroad for some time so that I may come home as soon as it is possible. . . to express devotion to great ideas without crawling before small men."

He was allowed out with his wife and died six years later in Paris.

In more recent times, a prominent writer sent out and later deprived of his citizenship was Valeri Tarsis who went to Britain in 1965.

Whereas Solzhenitsyn was first stripped of his citizenship and then deported as an alien, geneticist Zhores Medvedev was deprived of his citizenship while on a lecture trip to Britain last year.

A similar thing happened to Valert Chaidze, a young physicist who left the Soviet Union in 1972. A former member of the unofficial Soviet Human Rights Committee, he now publishes "The Chronical of Human Rights in the U. S. S. R." in New York.

In his novel, "The First Circle, "Solzhensitsyn spoke of a punishment far worse than 25 years of forced labor.

"It amounts to spiritual castration: Article 20, Section a, sentences a man to be declared an enemy of the working people and to be expelled beyond the territorial limits of the U.S.S.R. Let him rot there in the west," a character in the novel said.

SIGN OF THE TIMES - Cardboard cartons covering these gas pumps at a local service station helped get the message across -- "Out of Gas." This was true of several service stations which closed this week as February gasoline allocations ran out and dealers waitind for March supplies to come in.

New World Still Newer...

Older civilizations tend to corruption. New ones emerge from brutality.

Neither is a choice. It is an alternative.

The U. S. , for example, is aging as fast as its accumulation of knowledge, capsuling centuries in a decade. It took Rome a thousand years to decline beyond recovery, but the seeds of failure are borne in the infant nation.

Rome failed to respond as an empire, but emerged through catholicity as individual nations Spain, Portugal, France, Austria, Great Britain and multiples of Eastern European states, including Western Russia. Czar translates Caesar.

The U. S. is a catholicity of states -- 50 at present -- whose concentrations of power have been cities, including the emerging jungles of strip cities, perhaps 20 or 25 identifiable groups. These are not unlike city states of Renaissance Italy, successor parts to Rome, which was "the" city state, the place all roads once were leading to.

The magic of technology and communication makes it possible for our city states to break down without losing the momentum of a great power becoming greater in terms of international redevelopment. The great Moslem power which conquered before and after Rome failed is being restored in what once was Persia. We know it as Iran headed by the oil-rich Shah, who evidences friendship with the U.S.

Redistribution of population has begun in this country. Because of technology there is no "country" anymore. Perhaps in our minds or in our memories, but not in reality.

There is brutality. There is corruption. But these are contained if we understand our own strengths far outweigh so many apparent weaknesses. These are ferreted out within our system, however long it appears to take.

"Rome was not built in a day," to recall a cliche. Nor was it torn down in a day. Nor was it totally destroyed. Nor will it be.

It changed systems. It subdivided. It re-emerged. We are, in fact, part of Rome. And Greece. and the Middle East.

Just enough civilization sustains the vigor to contain brutality. And the vigilence to curb corruption.

The U. S. -- America -- the New World is still newer than all those places we derive from. And we are much imitated.

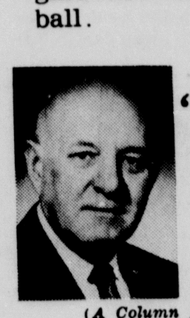
For Roosters Or Fullbacks...

Those new nets at Yoe tennis courts are great. But those backstops.

Roosters as big as fullbacks could go through that gaping chicken wire. Imagine how easy for a tennis ball.

It's a great game, played by dozens of junior high and high school students, not to mention a few dozen adults beyond the schools.

Can't we clip together those wires, at least during the spring tennis season?



"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

WANTS IMPEACHMENT DEBATES TELEVISED

Rep. Sidney R. Yates (Ill.) ". . . I have today filed a resolution providing for live radio and television coverage of the debate in the House Chamber on the bill to impeach the President.

"I do so because I believe the American people want to see and hear what is surely the most historic debate of our time. I do it also because I believe it is essential that the constitutional process of impeachment be made clear throughout the country in showing the separate functions of the House and the Senate . . .

"It is apparent that within the next 90 days we in this House shall be called upon to decide whether the President should stand trial before the Senate on the question of whether he is fit to continue in office.

"This is not just an awesome burden laid upon the Congress. The procedure of impeachment is an awesome burden for the Nation. No living person has experienced or remembers an impeachment of a President and many people — in the House and among the general public — wonder what it is all about . . .

"The proceedings of impeachment will have to answer many questions for the public. Not all of them have to do with Mr. Nixon. Some have to do with the Congress itself.

"We should let the public see that Members do conduct themselves with dignity and seriousness in their activities. Certainly, our actions on the floor in this extraordinary proceeding should be open to the public's scrutiny, for when we have finished our vote the people must know the decision has not been political or vindictive, but has been based upon solid fact and in accordance with law . . ."

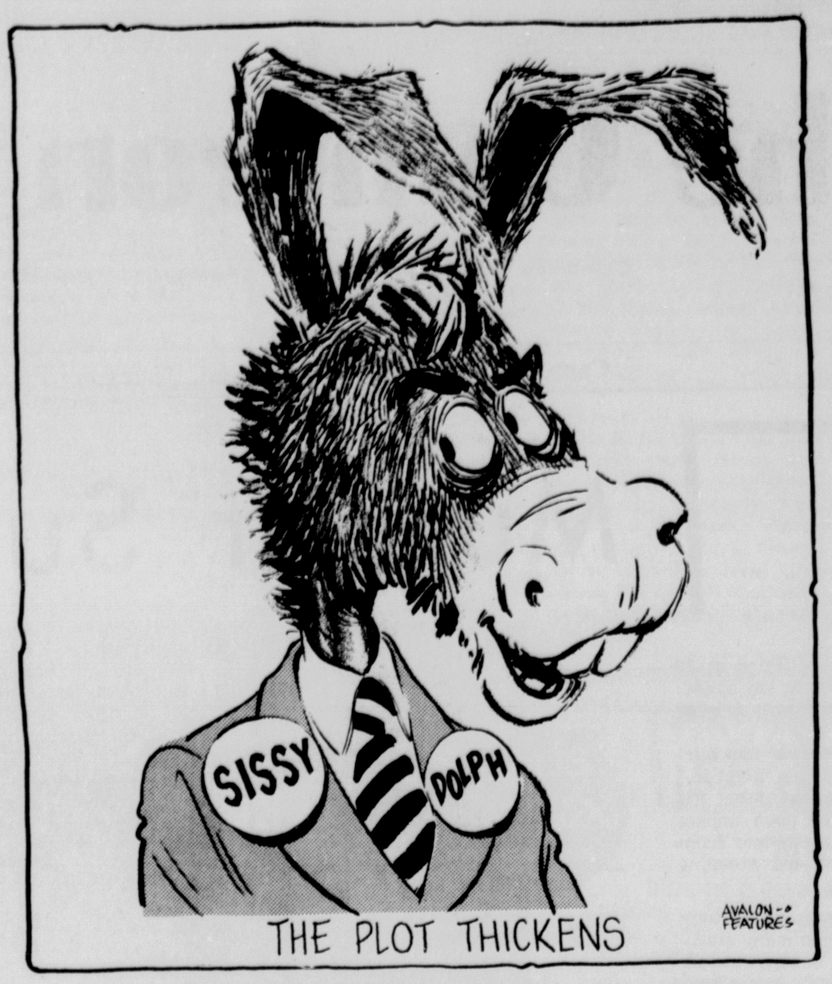
CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

The Constitution provides that "The House of Representatives . . . shall have the sole Power of Impeachment." The Senate shall have the sole Power to try all Impeachments." Removal from office is made on conviction of Treason, Bribery, or other Crimes and Misdemeanors by the Senate. Impeachment alone does not mean the official is guilty. In the United States a person is innocent until proven guilty.



OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to the latest public opinion poll, only 28 per cent of the people approve of President Nixon, but on the other hand the same poll shows that only 28 per cent of the people approve of Congress.

While no poll has been taken along this line and I don't look for one, I have a notion that if you polled Congress you might find that only about 20 per cent of its members approve of us.

In other words, very few people approve of very many people. Look around you, but don't look too close.

Changing the subject, I understand that one of the victims of the petroleum shortage is the phonograph record people. Records are made of plastic, plastic is made of petroleum, hence fewer records. It's one of the least alarming side effects of the energy shortage. I mean, I can't understand the words the singers are screaming on the records already out.

This reminds me of something that happened a few years ago. The Federal government sent a lot of rock bands abroad to, as it put it, "improve cultural relations," but the mission failed as far as I'm concerned The bands all left records to be played over here while they were gone.

Changing the subject again, I notice that Washington has just canceled a debt of several billion dollars India has owed us for the last 20 years on the grounds that the debts was "politically embarrassing to India."

Why can't we get up our bankers to adopt this broad-gauged view of financial debts? Any time a note becomes embarrassing, the bank sends an ambassador to your house to cancel it. You having trouble getting enough money together to pay your income tax? Stake out a few Brahma cows in your yard and tell Washington the debt is politically embarrassing.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Home Insurance Rates Going Up For Texans

Home insurance rates are going up for most Texans.

New rates to be effective June 1 or July 1 will take into consideration expected rising costs of replacing and repairing damaged buildings.

The rates were adjusted a year ago (Jan. 1, 1973), with reductions in most lines.

Indications are fire coverage for homes will go up this year, but commercial building protection will cost less.

Multi-purpose homeowners policies will increase in price for Seacoast and North-Northwest territories. Although the loss record of the last decade indicates a 5.5 per cent reduction for the Central Inland area, G. L. Jones, State Insurance Board chief property actuary, said inflation may negate the saving.

All three territories are due for an increase on extended coverage, including windstorm and vandalism coverage.

State Board statistics hold promise of a saving on commercial building coverage for the Central Inland territory.

Following past board practices of figuring inflation on price increases over the last six years, an industry representative said the statewide boost for all lines of building insurance would be more than 20 per cent.

However, Texas Insurance Advisory Association suggested a revised inflation factor projected to save $43.7 million for Texas property owners this year below the board estimates.

CONVENTION PROGRESSES — Debate grew increasingly tedious as the first round of Constitutional Convention floor debate opened — on the education article of the proposed new state constitution.

Convention President Price Daniel Jr. maintained delegates were sticking with their 90-day completion schedule, however, as they neared completion of action on the article in three half-day working periods.

The education article as approved by the delegates tentatively insures "equal educational opportunities" for all, but permits special local district program enrichment. It also retains for The University of Texas and Texas A&M income from the $680 million Permanent University Fund.

Permanent and Available school funds are left intact, and the legislature is charged with providing for "first class" higher education.

LAW "DISCOVERED" — The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles only last November discovered a law requiring it to recommend to the governor whether prisoners should have full citizenship rights restored on completion of sentence.

"Until our present board membership was made aware of this provision very recently, it has been ignored," said Charles G. Shandera, a member of the Board, in a letter to Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston. Schwartz is chairman of the Constitutional Convention Rights and Suffrage Committee.

Shandera said he does not think the oversight has worked any great hardship on ex-convicts deprived of civil rights, because they can make requests for full pardon.

Rights include voting, running for public office, jury service, entry into licensed professions and eligibility for bonding.

ALLOWABLE AT 100 PER CENT AGAIN — The Railroad Commission set the statewide oil allowable at 100 percent for March — the 24th straight month of such production.

Commissioner Ben Ramsey said crude oil stocks, estimated at 85.8 million barrels, are 3.4 million less than the 1973 level. He said crude stocks for the nation are 24 million barrels below preferred levels and gasoline 50 million barrels below.

Exceptions to the 100 per cent allowable are Kelly-Snyder and East Texas Fields (86 per cent) and a dozen others set at 80 per cent.

COURTS SPEAK — The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned a marijuana conviction by a Greenville jury following a search without warrant.

The Court also reversed another marijuana conviction in Dallas on similar grounds. It ordered a new trial for a Wichita County man on incest charges after finding his 13 year-old daughter "participated willingly."

A Rockwall County man won a second reversal on robbery-by-assault sentence of 40 years.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals ordered Hays County commissioners to pay $22,800 as the county's share of adult probation costs in a district shared with Caldwell and Comal counties.

AG OPINIONS — A strong anti-discrimination provision in a new state constitution may prevent minority recruitment and bilingual educational programs, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

Hill also concluded in other recent opinions:

- Children may be placed for adoption by a natural parent, by a relative with other relatives, or by a licensed agency.
- Minors over 14, and under 17 can be prosecuted for driving while intoxicated, although the law is not constitutionally enforceable against those 17 to 18.
- The open records act and its exceptions have no bearing on scope of testimony of a witness taken in a civil proceeding pursuant to a notice and subpoena issued under rules of civil procedure.
- Whether or not the property of a fraternal lodge is exempt from taxation depends on a determination of whether the lodge is a purely public charity and its property is used for purely public charitable purposes.
- If courts and not juries grant probation in felony cases, problem drinkers-drivers involved may be required to pay for the expense of treatment. Ability to pay expenses of treatment may not be a grounds for denying probation and failure to pay the expense of treatment because of financial inability may not be a ground for revocation of probation.
- A Texas Youth Council member is entitled to reimbursement for reasonable expenses incurred in meetings in city where he resides.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor Briscoe appointed Dr. Robert Gordon of Dallas and reappointed Dr. John I. Wheeler Jr. of Houston to the State Board of Examiners of Psychologists.

Briscoe named to Red River Authority Board Harlan E. Hood of Estelline, Tommy D. Carnahan of Hereford, Jim D. Hughes of Vernon and Jim W. Sowell of Quanah.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Luecke:

It has been said in America that a child starts walking by 16 months and stops walking by 16 years!

I was pleased recently to hear from Coach Ed Cauley that he was adding a Masters Mile run for anyone age 35 and older to the Cameron Relays on March 16, 1974. I am hopeful that this higher age will encourage more older joggers to enter this event where the emphasis is on conditioning by having the entrants "predict" the time in which they think they will run the mile.

Recently a Masters Mile was held in Houston for people age 40 and older. Even though no women entered, 42 men participated from the following age groups: Age 40-49 - 22; age 50-59 - 12; 60 - 69 - 7; age 76 - 1. This remarkable 76- year old man ran his mile in 9:12. However, more noteworthy was the fact that during the entire evening I spent with this large group, there was not one word said about bursitis, gout, lumbago, high blood pressure, heart trouble, back trouble or any other of the medical maladies usually associated with this group; rather the only thing they spoke of was how many miles they ran and how good they felt. Of course I realize that this group represents less than one-tenth of one percent of the population but my point is that these particular people do not have a patent on a long healthy life; it is practically free, it does not require expensive membership fees or dues, it does not require expensive equipment or overpriced clothing. Anyone can afford a few dollars for jogging shoes - especially if your life depends on it!

I am grateful for the previous support you have given this Masters Mile but I feel much more emphasis will be necessary, since it is a first-time event for the Cameron Relays, and so that it may be a success and retained as a regular event year after year. In this way perhaps we can inspire our fellow man (and woman since in the Gallup Poll 55% of the women and 38% of the men described themselves as being overweight) to take a little better care of himself.

Cordially Yours,

African Council Decides To Minimize Apartheid

By Martin Dickson

JOHANNESBURG Reuter -- In a public park in central Johannesburg, a black man and a white man sit side by side on the same wooden bench.

In most countries this would not rate a second glance, but in Johannesburg, the largest city of South Africa, the sight is a startling result of a city council decision to minimize so-called "petty" aparthid.

Until recently, the park bench would have been labelled "Europeans only." If the African wanted to rest, he would have had to sit on the grass or find one of the few seats in the city reserved for "non-whites."

The fact that blacks and whites can now share the same seat hardly amounts to a revolutionary change in white South Africa's belief in segregation. Neither do the council's other "scrap petty apartheid" moves.

But they are signs of small but growing fissures in the granite wall of apartheid built up by the national party government since it came to power nearly 26 years ago.

And the Johannesburg council's moves are not isolated ones several other major cities look like they are following its example -- despite murmurings of government disapproval.

Apart from desegregating public benches, Johannesburg has also made lines for municipal services multi-racial. It also opened to all color groups parks which were in theory, if not in practice, previously reserved for whites.

In addition, blacks can now join city libraries and can visit museums and art galleries at the same time as whites, rather than at separate times set aside for them.

The moves may be small, but in the racially obsessed South African context, they are being hailed as a major breakthrough.

One of the guiding lights behind the decision, Councillor Johannes Oberholzer, points out that "This is the first time in history in this country where apartheid is in some form being demolished, where there is no extension of the restrictions and the hurt that it has inflicted over the years."

Describing petty apartheid as "the greatest affront in history to the dignity of man," he says the council's moves are the beginning of an end to "the uncalled-for humiliation daily experienced by blacks."

But if the city council feels so strongly about the situation, why did it not attack petty apartheid sooner, and why has it not gone further in its current campaign?

Oberholzer explains that if the council had mounted its assault five years ago, "There would have been an outburst. I don't think people would have been ready for it. Now there's an acceptance that change is inevitable."

He points out there have been no unpleasant incidents since the council began implementing its decision and 95 per cent of the letters he has received have supported the moves.

But Oberholzer believes that the council can go only so far without creating an angry white reaction. As a result, swimming pools and public toilets will have to remain segregated.

For to bring down the color bar here would "create a flashpoint, a backlash right across what we're doing. It would destroy our entire effect."

But despite the current moves to liberalize apartheid, racial integration is still very much the exception to the rule which divides blacks and whites in every sphere of life.

An African must live in an area set aside for Africans, he must travel to work on a non-white train or bus.. At work he eats in a blacks-only restaurant and uses a non-whites toilet.

Ag Economist Predicts Plenty Of Loan Money

Agricultural loans are likely to increase by 15 to 20 per cent again this year, but rural areas should have plenty of money to cover them, predicts Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

His predictions, based on what happened last year, also indicates that the price of loans will be about the same as last year.

"Nationally, the money supply increased about 7.3 per cent last year, a bit faster than increases for the previous several years," says Hayenga.

Interest rates for long-term securities from major money markets increased slightly last year from 7.1-7.2 per cent in January to 7.6 - 7.7 per cent in December, while short-term interest rates made steady increases throughout the year.

"The prime rate which big city banks charge their best customers was up to nearly 10 per cent from 5.75 per cent at the beginning of the year," says the Texas A&M University System specialist. "The other major short-term interest rate -- three-month treasury bills -- ended the year yielding 7.5 per cent, up from about 5 per cent."

In Texas, deposits in country banks are up substantially due to increased prices received on agricultural products. Estimates for year-end deposit increases range from 10 to more than 20 per cent for various areas over the state, notes Hayenga.

Loans from rural banks are up also. Loans outstanding from Texas banks at the end of 1973 were nearly $1.7 billion, over 20 per cent more than the 1972 year-end volume.

"All this means that the agricultural credit outlook for Texas farmers and ranchers is better than it has been in several years," explains Hayenga. "There should be an adequate supply of money available in Texas to meet much of the expanding agricultural credit demand."

The economist also says that interest rates on outside funds may decline if the money supply keeps growing at its normal rate and the economy slows down as many economists think it will. So, chances are that agricultural interest rates will remain about steady or move downward slightly for both short-term operating loans and long-term mortgages.

"This year, many lenders will look closer at records that farmers and ranchers have to back up their loan requests," adds Hayenga. "Because of government program changes, the secure feeling the banker had with the old government check is no longer a part of farmer - banker relationships.

"Many bankers are requesting net worth and income statements for at least three years and a projected cash flow for the next year. Having these records available when applying for a loan will aid both the borrower and lender," contends the economist.

SCS NEWS

The soil is the greatest of our natural resources. It is basic to all agricultural activities and to the economy and prosperity of the nation, according to Marvin Dixon, Soil Scientist, Soil Conservation Service. This is the reason we must survey and study the soil to find out all we can about it.

In the Temple area, which includes Bell, Coryell, Falls, Hamilton, Limestone, McLennan and Milam Counties, 3,275,556 acres have been surveyed. This is 76 per cent of the area. In Milam County 359,700 acres have been surveyed. This is 55 percent of the land area.

Many uses are being made of soil survey maps. They furnish basic data for all land uses.

Farmers can use soil surveys to learn the extent and location of the different kinds of soil they have, the ability of these soils to grow plants and their response to use and management.

Town officials, planners and a host of others find that they too can benefit from the uses of soil surveys. The shallowness to bedrock or a flood hazard is equally as important in selecting a building site, as it is in determining the kind of crop or grass to grow.

Watershed work plans are dependent to a large degree on adequate soil information over the area of the watershed.

Highway engineers can use soil surveys in planning most feasible routes for new highways. They also use soil surveys in locating road-building materials on and near road right-of-ways.

Land appraisers are interested in soil surveys as an aid in determining land value.

Soil surveys can be used in planning and conducting research and for general education.

For soils information contact your local Soil Conservation Service.

Watch for corduroy jeans to give denim some relife in the youth clothes market.

Until recently, denim was the only fabric providing a worn-out look after a few washings. Now, specially-processed corduroy also achieves that look.

This new process causes a worn look at seams and points of wear -- rather than fading uniformly. Although the major change takes place after the first washing, color stabilizes after the fifth washing.

Available for Spring '74 retailing, manufacturers may sell jeans pre-washed or with hang tags explaining changes that will result from washing.

Easter Seal Appeal To Open In County

The 1974 Easter Seal Appeal will open in Milam County on Friday, March 1, according to E. J. Manning, who serves as Easter Seal Representative for the County.

Manning said that Easter Seal Appeal letters would begin arriving at homes in the county about March 1.

As Easter Seal Representative, Manning is the person to contact to request services from the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas. These services include physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing programs and special information services to help solve the many problems faced by the families of handicapped children and adults.

Dessert Ideas From An Old Cookbook

Just as there are travel book fans, there are avid cookbook readers. The armchair traveller enjoys great adventures to far away places without stirring from her chair. And the armchair cook conjures up great culinary masterpieces and mentally tastes foods of bygone times without stirring a spoon. For cookbooks are a form of history, especially those old recipe collections compiled by local groups. Midwest cookbooks of the late 1880's show culinary heritage and skill and how inventive women were with the new foods appearing in the country stores.

LEMON CRACKER SQUARES

- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup cold water
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 3/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 30 PREMIUM Saltine Crackers, finely rolled (about 1 cup crumbs)
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup flaked coconut
- 3/4 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed

In top of double boiler combine sugar, cornstarch and salt; stir in water. Cook over low heat, stirring gently, until thickened. Place over boiling water. Cover and cook 10 to 12 minutes, stirring occasionally. Slowly stir into eggs; return to double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, 4 to 5 minutes longer. Remove from heat. Stir in 1/4 cup butter or margarine, lemon juice and vanilla extract. (Mixture will be thinner). Strain into a bowl. Let cool while making crust.

Combine cracker crumbs, flour, coconut and brown sugar. Cut in remaining 1/2 cup butter or margarine until evenly mixed. Sprinkle 2/3 mixture over bottom of buttered 9x9x2-inch baking pan. Pour filling over; sprinkle with remaining crumbs; press lightly. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes until browned. Cool at room temperature. Serve cut in squares, topped with whipped cream, for dessert (as pictured); or cut in bars. Makes 9 (3-inch) squares or 18 (3 x 1 1/2-inch) bars.

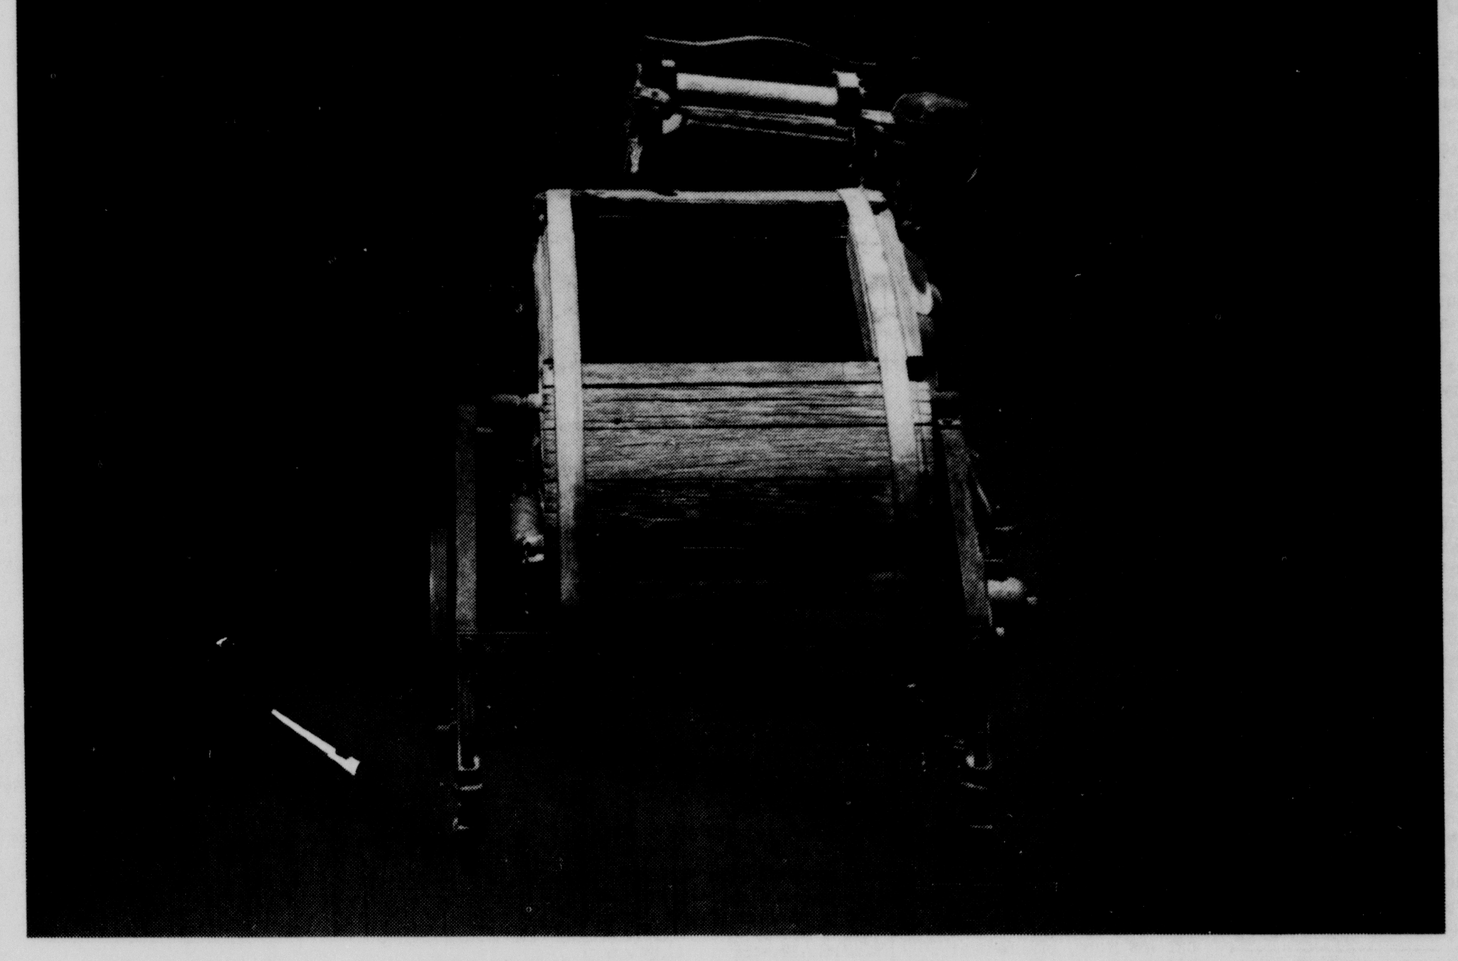
Abandoned...
Because of electricity.



Times have changed. Wringer washers gave way to modern methods of washing clothes. Ice boxes melted away when electric refrigerators were introduced. Electric lights snuffed out kerosene lamps.

Through the years, electric appliances have eased or eliminated many hard chores. Gone are the treadle sewing machine and flatirons. And the dishwasher has taken over the tiresome job of hand-washing dishes, pots and pans.

Today, electricity is a vital part of everyday living. That's why Texas Power & Light is doing everything possible to assure an adequate supply for your essential needs.

Electricity. Still one of the biggest bargains in your budget.

Baptist Administrator Sees Positive Side To Childcare

Child care in Texas is coated with controversy.

But, against the negative of headlines and news reports, there is a positive side to child care.

Charles Wright is representative of that positivism. He's a missionary; a missionary to children.

Wright, administrator of Texas Baptist Children's home in Round Rock, ministers in a world of neglect, abuse, fear, deprivation, dependency and lovelessness.

He has a message: A message of quality, Christian child care.

"We're in missions," the soft-spoken man says. "Child care is a missionary calling.

"It's not only the golden-haired, blue-eyed lovable little girl we are called on to serve," he says. "It's disturbed children, children with problems, children who have seldom been loved before."

He deals with children who have sometime been beaten, abused or otherwise physically misused; with children who have been left alone too long, with those who are psychologically bruised, with others who are plain unwanted and others who just need a home."

"Children were presented in the Bible as being of great worth. Our missionary calling certainly centers around that. Jesus instructed us to meet the needs of the people, ' Wright added.

Wright pushes for the best child care which can be achieved wherever he goes: at TBCH, in the state government, the regulatory agencies, with his fellows in child care institutions, and with leaders and members of his own denomination.

Part of Wright's campaign to tell the story of quality, Christian child care is a television special, to be on 22 stations around Texas from 6:30 to 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 3.

Plenty of cheap land for hardy pioneer families. Would you like to be among the first to stake out a claim? Free transportation in the fastest, most modern vehicle an added inducement. Bring your own air and water.

Not interested! That's just as well—we're talking about the moon.

Far more, we need earnest men and women eager to explore the earth's spiritual frontiers . . . people who will seek courageously for Christian answers to the complicated problems progress has created . . . families trying to enrich their homes and their world with faith and love.

The Church is the homestead of such pioneers. Its grasp encompasses heaven and earth . . . from the throne of God to the depths of a little child's soul.

It cannot fathom the mysteries of outer space. But it will reveal to any man the Center of this universe.

The Rockdale Tigers ended their basketball season Friday night as Crosby defeated them 55-45 in the regional play-offs in Houston. The Tigers represented a District 12-AAA well, and now end the season with a 241-14 record.

Also over the weekend the girls volleyball team captured third place honors in the Mary Hardin Baylor Volleyball Tournament. Congratulations to Rosemary Eickenhorst for being selected to the All-Tournament Team.

The girls still have 6 more games and a tournament to go, and with one district victory over Lampasas under their belt their looking for the district title.

This years team could be a likely candidate for the spot. So far, they have only been beaten twice; once by Caldwell and once by Belton. They have won 7 games.

The Cameron baseballers battled it out with Temple Saturday at the Cameron Ball Park. Coach Jon Forsythe's Yoemen seemed too strong for the Wildcats as Cameron took a 13-1 and 11-1 victory.

Temple is reported as not having a strong team this year, so one cannot tell too much about the strength of this years team. However, you can get a good look at the Yoemen as they meet Rockdale this Friday in Cameron.

The Yoemen will also open the track season this Saturday as they travel to Taylor to participate in the Taylor Relays. The Yoemen haven't dominated the track scene in quite some time, but from the looks of things it might be a different situation this year.

Congratulations to Milano's Bruce Williams and Buckholts' Debra McNeil for making the first team selections on the District 54-B All District basketball team.

Congratulations are also extended to second team area picks - Milano's Vanessa Davidson and Buckholts Larry Orsag and honorable mention selections - Milano's Kathy Davenport, Milano's Debbie Gunnels, Buckholt's Nancy Vaculin, Milano's Jimmy Mills, Buckholt's Glen Roseler, and Milano's Dwight Wilson.

Girls Volleyball Team Wins Third

The Cameron Girls Volleyball team, coached by Pat Short, captured a tall, shiny third place trophy Saturday in the Mary Hardin Baylor Volleyball Tournament.

The hustling Yoemen whipped Salado 15-1 and 15-0 in the opening round of play, beat the Temple B 15-0, and 15-2, lost to Belton 15-6, 15-8 and 15-4 to capture the consolation honors.

During the tournament Rosemary Eickenhorst was named to the All Tournament team for outstanding play during the four games.

Belton was only the second team to beat Cameron on this season, and the Yoemen now own a 7-2 record. Caldwell was the other team that beat the Yoemen.

Cameron victories also included wins over Killeen. Lampasas, and over Rockdale. The victory over Lampasas was a district win.

The girls making this winning season possible are as follows: Linda Borgas, Rosemary Eickenhorst, Helen Aleman, Patricia Johnson, Teresa Pittman, Rebecca Riola, Kim Sommers, and Diane Vansa.

The girls junior varsity team has also been seeing action against similar opponents. They have been defeated by Rockdale twice, lost to Lampasas in their first district game, Caldwell in their last game, but do have a win over Killeen to their credit.

In the district game against Lampasas the Yoe JV got off to a good start by winning the first match 15-11, but lost the last two by 15-11 and 15-3 scores.

Members of the Yoe JV are as follows: Janett Angell, Debra Fleming, Renee Krenek, Wanda McGoldrik, Genoveva Soriano, Patricia Trubee, and Joni Wilkerson.

The girls next action will be Thursday in Rosebud-Lott at 5:30 p.m. and then the varsity will compete in the Killeen Tournament on Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2.

The remaining portion of the volleyball schedule is as follows:

3-5 Belton There at 5 p.m.
3-7 Lampasas there at 5 pm
3-12 Rose - Lott Here at 5:30
3-21 Belton Here 4:15 p.m.

Yoe Win Two Against Temple

The Cameron Yoemen baseball team defeated the Temple Wildcats twice last Saturday in Cameron in a doubleheader scrimmage. Cameron won the first game 13-1, and took the second by a 11-1 score.

John Barron was the winning pitcher in the first game, and Alderman was the losing pitcher for Temple. In the second game Jeff Smitherman was the winning pitcher, and Temple's Laster was the losing pitcher.

The game was intended as a warmup for the Yoe 1974 baseball season which will begin on Friday, March 1.

The Yoemen will meet the Rockdale Tigers in Cameron at 5 p.m.

John Barron will start the pitching for the Yoemen with George Whiteside doing the catching.

Joe Smitherman will be on first base, Gene Kopriva at second, Ricky Sapp at third, and Craig Friemel will close the infield at shortstop.

Lorenzo Majors will start for the Yoemen at left field, Bruce Zarosky will be in right field, and Jeff Smitherman will be in center field.

Yoe head baseball coach, Jon Forsythe, said that Rockdale had a strong team with several starters back but he didn't know how they had done in scrimmages this year.

Afrer the opener with Rockdale this Friday, the Yoemen will meet the Tigers again in Rockdale on Tuesday, March 5.

After this Cameron will be at home for two games with Temple on March 12, and two with Killeen on March 18.

MEASURE YOUR PHYSICAL FITNESS

The United States Marine Corps sees action in more ways than on the battlefield. Through the Corps' Youth Physical Fitness Program, thousands of high school athletes from throughout the nation proudly compete to claim the titles awarded by the United States Marines.

Recently, eight six-man teams vied for national honors, trophies and $5,000 in scholarships and awards at the 14th annual meeting, which took place at Marine Barracks in Washington, D.C. They competed in a five-event physical fitness test designed by the Corps.

The test events for the competition include a series of five exercises: sit-ups, push-ups, pull-ups, standing broad jump and a 300-yard shuttle run, performed in sequence by each of the competitors.

Explanation of the program is available through local Marine Recruiters as well as information about fitness programs within the Corps itself.

Since 1775, the Marine Corps has prided itself on its high training standards and its ability to attract young men capable of meeting the physical demands of training and those who can become conditioned in a minimum period of time. Physical fitness demands endurance, mental alertness and self-discipline.

When it comes to physical fitness, the Marine Corps Program is definitely on the right track. And thousands of young men throughout the land have decided to sit up and take notice.

Rockdale Defeated By Crosby

The Rockdale Tigers ended a successful season on a rather unsuccessful note Friday night as Crosby downed the Tigers, 55-45, in Houston during the regional play-offs.

The first period proved to be the determining factor in Crosby s victory as their press caused Rockdale to fall behind by a 18-4 score.

However, the Tigers did manage to pull within 5 points of Crosby at 28-23 when the halftime buzzer sounded.

When the second half began it looked as if the Tigers were going to close Crosby s margin as they pulled within 3 points, but Crosby tossed in 8 straight points to regain their lead.

Rest of the game the Tigers tried desperately to cut the 11 point margin, but could only stay on even shooting terms with the Crosby 5.

Laird was the high pointer for Rockdale with 14 points, Samuel had 13, Mack 12, Locklin 9, Peebles 6, and Sulack 1.

Bass was the high pointer for Crosby with 16.

®DI-SYSTON systemic insecticide still gives you effective control of early-season cotton insects for as low as 86¢* AN ACRE

You want to save money when you buy an early-season insecticide. But not at the expense of losing control. You don't buy any bargain when you save a few cents an acre on chemical costs, only to find out the rate won't do the job because it doesn't fit the way you plant.

Before you start planting, compare the plain, hard facts about insecticide cost and effectiveness.

DI-SYSTON SAVES TIME
Apply early-season insect protection as you plant.

DI-SYSTON SAVES LABOR
Eliminates early-season sprays, frees labor for other important planting chores.

DI-SYSTON SAVES STANDS
Controls thrips, aphids that weaken seedlings, set them up for disease and adverse weather.

DI-SYSTON SAVES COTTON
Protected seedlings grow off fast; get fast, early growth that sets heavy bottom crop ahead of mid-season insects.

DI-SYSTON SAVES BENEFICIALS
Protection goes underground; can't wipe out good bug populations that help control bollworm flareups later on.

Best of all... DI-SYSTON saves money without cutting effective rates for the way you plant.

Look at all the facts, and you'll stick with DI-SYSTON, the dependable original systemic insecticide.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most requently asked by taxpayers.

Q- My wife receives no pay for the charity work she does for a local hospital. Yet she incurs expenses for traveling from home to the hospital, paying for her lunches and hiring someone to take care of the children while she's at the hospital. Are these expenses deductible as charitable contributions?

A - If the hospital is a qualified charitable organization, non-reimbursed out-of-pocket automobile expenses directly attributable to services rendered to the hospital are deductible as a charitable contribution. Actual expenses or a standard rate of six cents per mile may be deducted. However, the cost of lunches (unless away from home overnight) and babysitting fees are personal expenses and are not directly related and solely attributable to the rendition of charitable services. Thus, they cannot be deducted as a charitable contribution.

Q - My tax form instructions constantly refer to "adjusted gross income." What is it?"

A - This is the total income that appears on line 15 of your Form 1040. Adjusted gross income is arrived at by subtracting business expenses, sick pay, moving expenses, etc., from your gross income. For many taxpayers, however, adjusted gross income is equivalent to their total income.

Q - How can I tell whether I should itemize my deductions or choose the standard deduction?

A - It usually will be to your advantage to itemize deductions if you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes; you had unusually large medical and dental expenses during the year; you paid alimony, suffered a major unusual casualty loss or made large contributions to qualified charities. Your tax form instructions contain a formula you may use to determine whether you should itemize or take the standard deduction.

Q - My adjusted gross income is $13,000. Can I get the $2,000 standard deduction?

A - No. The standard deduction is 15 percent of your adjusted gross income up to a $2,000 maximum. Fifteen percent of $13,000 is $1,950. This is your standard deduction.

Q - Are "tips" taxable?

A - All tips you receive are subject to Federal income tax. In addition, cash tips amounting to $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer are subject to withholding of income and social security tax. These tips must also be reported to the employer.

Q - I sold by home last fall at a big profit. I am going to use the money to get anther house. Should I report the gain from the sale of my old home on my 1973 return?

A -- If within one year before or one year after the sale, you buy and occupy another residence, the cost of which equals or exceeds the adjusted sales price of the old residence, the entire gain you realize on the sale or exchange is not taxed at the time of the sale and would not have to be reported on your tax return. For more details, see IRS Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home." Use the order blank in you 1040 tax form package to get a free copy.

Q - Where can I get information on the tax obligations of operating a business?

A - Stop in at your IRS office or post office and pick up a copy of the "Tax Guide for Small Business" (Publication 334). This booklet which costs $1.00, will aid you in finding the answer to the tax questions that arise when starting, operating and disposing of a business. The publication is also available by mail from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, D. C., for $1.25 postpaid.

Old Testament Books Ready In Modern English

"Justice Now," three old Testament books in Today's English Version, is being published today by the American Bible Society.

The books are Hosea, Amos and Micah, prophets who were God's spokesmen to the ancient Israelites. They told of coming events. They challenged the civil and religious establishments of their day, proclaiming profound truths which have retained their relevance.

Published in paperback form, "Justice Now" is illustrated with black and white drawings by James Howard of Leonard, Minn.

This latest publication in Today's English Version is a distinctly new translation that does not conform to traditional vocabulary and style. It seeks to express the meaning or the Hebrew text in words and forms accepted as standard by people everywhere who employ English as a means of communication.

Footnotes are used to assist the reader to understand the meaning of the text, especially where ancient beliefs are expressed or alluded to.

"Good News for Modern Man," the New Testament in Today's English Version, which was published in September, 1966, has achieved a spectacular circulation figure approaching 45 million copies. The complete Bible in Today's English Version will be published by the American Bible Society in 1976.

"Justice Now" may be ordered from the American Bible Society, Dept. S, Grand Central Station, P. O. Box 3537, New York, N. Y., 10017. The order number is 04440 and the price 10 cents per copy, including postage.

Since its founding in 1816, the American Bible Society has adhered to its original purpose: translating, publishing and distributing the Scriptures throughout the world, without doctorinal comment, at a price will within reach of every person.

Energy Officer Clarifies Fuel Allocation Forms

Clarification of procedures for farmers and ranchers to use in filing forms for fuel allocations were issued today by Delbert M. Fowler of Dallas, Regional Administrator for the Southwest Region of the Federal Energy Office (FEO).

"First of all I want to emphasize that the farmer should make every effort to solve his problem through his individual supplier," Fowler said.

"The farmer or rancher is entitled to 100 percent of his current requirements, and his supplier should see to it that his fuel is delivered," Fowler continued.

"But I also want to emphasize this does not exempt the farmer or rancher from using conservation measures like everyone else," Fowler noted, adding the warning, "This status can be taken away just as easily as it was given if the privilege is abused."

There are two instances where a person involved in agricultural production would apply directly to the FEO regional office, using FEO Form 17:

1. If he qualifies as a wholesale purchaser (he buys 20,000 gallons or more annually), and none of the suppliers he has contacted are willing to accept him as a new customer as they are obligated to do under the regulations, he has the desired supplier fill out block 12 on the FEO Form 17 and sends the Form 17 application to the Dallas or other appropriate regional FEO office asking that he be assigned to a supplier.

2. If he qualifies as a wholesale purchaser, and he and his supplier cannot agree on the base period allocation volumes to be provided, he has his supplier indicate the disagreement in block 12 on the Form 17 and sends the Form 17 application to the Dallas or other appropriate regional FEO office for resolution.

There are two instances when a person involved in agricultural production would apply directly to his state allocation office. If he encounters either of the two situations as a wholesale purchaser, he would apply to the state officer on FEO Form 20 for assignment or adjustment, rather than to the regional office.

All of these situations relate to longer term actions. If in the short term, the farmer or rancher is out of fuel and is a hardship case, he contacts his state allocation office and makes application on FEO Form 20.

State Tech Tries Co-Op Education

WACO

Under the huge covered service area at the Darr Equipment Co., 1201 LaSalle Ave., workers Stan Pitts and Steven Warren had two things in common.

Both are students at the James Connally Campus of Texas State Technical Institute.

And both had slimy black grease up to their elbows.

Pitts and Warren, enrolled in State Techs' diesel and construction equipment mechanics course, are in a program known as cooperative education, which was begun at the James Connally Campus last September with a $25,000 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Under the program, students spend part of their time, usually one quarter or two (a quarter is 12 weeks) working fulltime for a business or industry in their field of study.

They do it to get firsthand, on-the-job experience.

On this particular afternoon, Pitts, 18, of Caldwell, was getting firsthand experience overhauling disc brakes on a gravel loader.

Warren, 18, of Houston, ws learning how to replace an overheated bolt on the starter engine exhaust manif ! ' of a bulldozer.

"They're both good workers," said Homer Hutchinson, service manager for Darr.

And the work is "pretty good," too, the students said.

Charles Brannon, chairman of the diesel and construction equipment program at the James Connally Campus, said half of his 22 students are on jobs now. Besides the two in Waco, others are working in Longview, Houston, San Antonio, Abilene and Odessa.

When their quarter of work is completed, they will return to class, and the other half of the class will be assigned to jobs, Brannon said.

Some companies pay cooperative education students about half what they pay skilled workers, Brannon said. Other companies, he said pay more. Usually the rate is between $2.50 and $4.85 and hour, he said.

One other program at the James Connally Campus, floriculture and ornamental horticulture technology, headed by James E. Fitts, now has students on jobs under the cooperative education program.

Four students are working at Wolfe Wholesale Florists, 2901 S. Twelfth St., Waco; one is working at Midway Garden Center and Nursery, 121 Estates Dr., Midway; two are working in El Paso, and one in Dallas.

LS Expands Fertilizer Production

The chemical fertilizer subsidiary of Lone Star Gas Company, Nipak, Inc., today announced it will expand production facilities at Pryor, Oklahoma. The company noted that the increased fertilizer production will assist in increasing the supplies of agricultural foodstuffs produced in the United States.

The new four million dollar plant will utilize the Stamicarbon stripping process to produce an additional 63,000 tons of urea compound annually. The plant expansion will upgrade 38,000 tons of ammonia already produced at the plant annually and sold as ammonia.

This will increase Nipak's total urea production from approximately 172,000 tons to over 235,000 tons a year, which includes 75,000 tons produced yearly at Nipak's plant at Kernes, Texas.

On-site construction is scheduled to begin in October, 1974, with an expected completion date in the latter part of 1975.

DON'T THINK CONSERVATION
DO IT!

Sometimes we tend to feel that "the other guy" should be more careful about wasting energy. But if we're going to make energy conservation work, all of us...large and small energy consumers alike... will have to keep working at it.

We usually stress all the ways that folks living in homes and apartments can save energy. But what about office buildings and industrial plants? Can't they help too?

Sure. And we'd like to suggest some simple steps for reducing energy consumption for businesses and industrial complexes. These suggestions are based on Lone Star's own efforts to reduce energy use by 11% in our own company.

Inside Buildings

1. Alter air temperatures to 68 when heating, and 77 when cooling.
2. Reduce elevator services between the non-peak hours of 9-11:30 a.m. and 2-4 p.m.
3. Reduce light levels in all areas below present levels.
4. Turn off floor lighting completely at 7 p.m., except for cleaning times.
5. When leaving, employees should close blinds and drapes and turn off lights.

Operation of Vehicles

1. Encourage employees to observe the state's maximum speed limit of 55 mph on both personal and company vehicles.
2. Establish employee car pools.
3. Print guidelines to distribute to employees who operate company-owned vehicles or machinery for proper use and care.

Industrial Complexes

Examine warehouses, plants and maintenance shops to find wasteful energy problems. This includes keeping doors closed when there is no traffic, and avoid overheating large plant areas from heating units located near large exits.

We can all contribute! With your help we can make an even larger contribution to America's energy conservation program in the next four months!

Lone Star Gas
Clean, efficient energy for years to come.

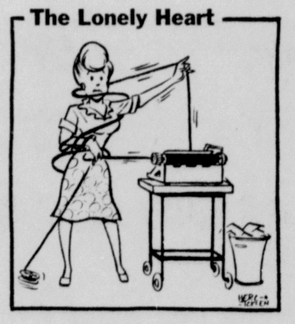
The Lonely Heart



Sons Of Hermann Set Founders Month

The Order of the Sons of Hermann in Texas will honor its pioneers with a Founder's Month membership campaign from March 1 through 31, Henry Riemer, grand president of the organization, has announced.

Initial lodge was founded in San Antonio on July 6, 1861, and was the only lodge in the state for almost 29 years. On March 27, 1890, with the Alamo in the background, leaders of that lodge and pioneers from seven other cities and towns, formed the Texas Grand Lodge and a statewide organization that then had 242 members.

There are 161 lodges and some 73,000 members today in about 100 communities including Cameron. The organization is well known for its many fraternal activities for men, women and children, including dancing schools and a summer camp for the latter.

OUR NEW MEAT LABELS TELL YOU WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

Our new meat identification program takes the guesswork out of selecting meat and how to prepare it . . . helps you be a "smarter" meat shopper and a better cook. Our improved meat label tells you at a glance the type of meat (Beef, Pork, Lamb or Veal), where it comes from, and the specific portion or common retail name.

fish for lent

Today, fish has become a popular any-time food, but it is a traditional choice during this special Lenten season. It is high in many nutrients but low in fat, and it can be prepared in many ways. Most recipes are interchangeable, too. If your favorite recipe calls for flounder, any white-fleshed fish can be used. Whether you buy it canned, fresh, fresh frozen, or frozen, fish is an excellent, yet economical, choice.

A bit of confusion has developed over the way some fish is marketed. What do the terms "fresh," "fresh frozen," and "frozen" really mean?

"Fresh" refers to fish which have been cleaned but never frozen. Therefore, fresh fish is seasonal. Varieties and availability may vary from area to area. Fresh fish should be used with 24 hours of purchase.

"Fresh frozen" means the fish has been cleaned and flash-frozen at 35 degrees below Zero immediately after it was caught. These fish are kept at Zero degrees or below until they arrive at your store. Then they are packaged in sizes more convenient for you and sold at the fresh meat counter. Fresh frozen fish are available in wide variety throughout the country because they are stored and transported in the frozen state.

"Frozen" usually means those fish which are processed, packaged in consumer sized packages, and flash-frozen immediately. They are available in the frozen food department of your favorite supermarket, and should be kept frozen until you are ready to use them.

Please check the fish section of our meat counter for recipes and menu suggestions, or send me your name and address, asking for fish recipes.
